

DON'T KNOW THAW, SAYS MRS. WHITE

Slain Architect's Wife Gives Out Her First Interview.

BOSTON, April 1.—Mrs. Stanford White has given out the first interview she has submitted to since the killing of her husband by Harry Thaw. By inference she denied the reports that White was greatly in debt to the firm of architects, W. W. Hew & Co., at the time of his death. It was noticeable that throughout the interview neither the name of her husband nor that of Thaw was mentioned by Mrs. White, except once when Thaw's name was put to her directly.

"Do you think Harry Thaw was crazy when he fired that shot in Madison Square Garden?" she was asked.

"Harry—Thaw—crazy? I do not know Mrs. Thaw," she said. "I do not speak of him to me."

Mrs. White explained that she is not reading the newspapers, and is keeping herself aloof from anything connected with the Thaw trial. Later, when asked if she did not find it hard to part with her art treasures, she said:

"I do not care to talk of that. If they are sold they will give pleasure to others at least."

"They are not sold to pay debts, but because I want to dispose of them. If there were debts they would be paid."

Mrs. White expects to remain in Boston until the end of the term at Harvard, where her son, Lawrence, is a student. Her future plans will depend largely upon what the son wishes to do.

ing that day the photographs will be taken free under the arrangement The Sunday Times has with nearly all of the photograph studios in the city. The photographers set this limit of time because the demand for the pictures has been so great that they must allow themselves from April 13 to April 21, the close of the contest, to develop and deliver the many photographs taken.

During the time remaining for the free photographs anybody may get them by applying for the necessary order to the Beauty Editor.

Third Weekly Contest On.

The third weekly contest promises to be as fruitful of beautiful photographs as were the first and second weeks. This third week began Saturday morning and will end next Friday midnight.

Already there have come to the Beauty Editor more than 100 photographs for entry in the third weekly contest.

A fact which is of advantage to The Sunday Times and to those entered in the contest is that many of those who have only one pose entered have sent in and are sending in several, or as many as half a dozen, more photographs. This is most satisfactory, because it gives the judges more opportunity to judge of the beauty of the subject, and gives the subject more certainty of having her beauty receive a deserving award.

Other Cities Watch Our Contest.

That the results achieved by The Sunday Times in finding lovely women have produced their effects in other cities is now certain. Several newspapers in other cities have reprinted pictures of the Washington beauties, and in more than one case they have accompanied the pictures with the warning that Washington bids fair to carry off the final national verdict, which will decide what city is the home of the most beautiful woman in America.

In the debate as to whether it is better to submit one pose or many in such a contest, it is worth remembering that the Chicago Tribune, which champions Della Carson as the most beautiful woman in the country, prints numberless poses of her from week to week, and there is little doubt that all these poses will be submitted to the judges of the national contest.

Washington Must Win.

So far as The Sunday Times is concerned it has no doubt that Washington will win the final award. The interest which the people of the District of Columbia have taken in the quest for the beauty is a sure indication that the Capital of the Nation will put before the country the loveliest woman within its midst. This interest is shown not only by the tremendous number of photographs that have been submitted, but by letters that have come to the Beauty Editor giving information about where other photographs could be found, and commending the way in which the contest has been conducted.

One of the letters received by the Beauty Editor today was a suggestion that a photograph of a girl from Falls Church, Va., be secured for the contest. While the suggestion is appreciated, the announcement is hereby made that Virginians are not eligible unless they are bona fide residents of the District of Columbia. This is a contest which must be decided among the women of the District. No others are allowed to enter.

"O FILII ET FILIAE"
SUNG AT ST. MATTHEW'S

St. Matthew's Church celebrated Easter yesterday with all the solemnity due the feast. The musical program was given by the choir, under the direction of Miss Jennie Glenn.

At the morning service Haydn's Sixteenth Mass and Benedictus by Marz were sung. At the offertory Goller's "Terra Tremuit" was rendered by twelve mixed voices. The proper of the mass was chanted by male voices, Solemn chant being used. At the close of the service the Gregorian recessional, "O, Filii et Filiae," harmonized for male voices, was sung.

In the afternoon the vesper proper to the feast was chanted. Helen May sang the "O, Salutaris."

The sales in the mass were sustained by Mrs. Rogers and Mrs. Phelps, the Misses Manning, Mollally, K. Ayimet, Polkborn, Mosher, and Mrs. Jones, Dr. Stitt, Charles Harris, Mr. Peter, J. J. O'Farrell, and A. O'Neil.

EXPECTED HOME WEDNESDAY.

Commissioner Henry L. West, who has been in Mexico for the past two weeks, is expected to be in his office Wednesday morning.

Thaw Expects Freedom During Present Week

Confident Lunacy Commission Will Declare Him Sane and That Jury Will Promptly Acquit Him.

NEW YORK, April 1.—The Thaw jury, when it met today, after being excused last Monday, was allowed to go by Justice Fitzgerald until 10:30 o'clock on Thursday.

It is believed the lunacy commission will report before that time and Justice Fitzgerald will then announce whether the trial will continue or Thaw is to be sent to Matteawan.

"Harry expects to be free within a week. He even talked to me about being free next Sunday, and planned how we could dine together."

This statement was made by Mrs. Evelyn Nesbit Thaw after a meeting with her husband in the Tombs, to show that Harry Thaw is confident that he already has shown the commission that he is sane, and that the commission will so decide his case, before sending it back to court, where he will be promptly acquitted.

There was no session of the lunacy commission today, the commission having adjourned until tomorrow. The trial jury had been ordered to report today, so there was a brief session of court, long enough to again excuse the jury. The process of sending the jury home from time to time will be continued until the lunacy commission reports its finding.

Thaw's Lawyers Confident.

Thaw's lawyers are as confident as himself that the showing he made before the commission was such as to convince any three unprejudiced men that he is sane and fully competent to confer with his counsel and that the commission will so decide. As a result of this, the defense will call no alienists to testify, despite the fact that District Attorney Jerome will call three of his alienists to testify.

"The defense will offer no witnesses before the commission," said Daniel O'Reilly. "No alienists will be called to testify to the present mental condition of the defendant, although the district attorney has the promise of the commission to hear his witnesses on three points. Mrs. Gregory, Filgrim, and White, who were witnesses for the defense, will not be called because their affidavits were not filed with the affidavits of the other experts."

Next Turn in Harriman's Case to Be Sensational

Motive Behind Union Pacific's Desire to Be Investigated Is Sought by the Commerce Commission.

The Harriman railroad merger will come into the public eye once more this week, in its relationship to the laws of the land. On Thursday the commission will hear the beginning of arguments by the Harriman counsel.

There is a strong belief that the next turn in the affairs of the Wall Street wizard is going to be sensational. As a result of the disclosures of Harriman's testimony, Wall Street had a panic. The Government authorities were thoroughly incensed against Harriman and Harriman before the panic. When they realized, as the panic forced them to do, that princely speculation had brought the country to the verge of a great disaster, their displeasure was redoubled.

When the commission resumes its hearings tomorrow it is known Mr. Jerome will insist on the legal right to call not only Dr. Hamilton, but as many other experts in insanity as he deems necessary to sustain his contention that Thaw is an incurable paranoiac, and that he will cite an opinion, expressed only a few months ago by Dr. Hamilton's return from Europe that Thaw was "crazier than Caligula," the assassin of President McKinley.

May Force Rebuttal Evidence.

If Dr. Hamilton is permitted to tell all he knows about the mental history of the Thaw family, and is followed by other experts to testify as to their opinion of the defendant's present condition, the defense will be forced to rebut this evidence, and if they are forced into that position the inquiry will drag along for a week. The three points to which the defense expects Jerome will be limited are the writings of Thaw, and especially the J. Denniston Lyon letters; the evidence in the trial, and all other observations of the alienists in court.

It is expected Dr. Hamilton will refuse to testify to isolated facts in regard to Thaw's insanity. He will want to take into "consideration," not only the observation he made in his visits to Thaw, but the entire history, the facts brought out in the trial, and all the letters and all other exhibits.

On Saturday he refused to separate part of the facts he knew from the whole, and declared that in justice to himself he must found his opinion on every aspect of the case.

great deal to say. Everything depends on what sort of hand Judge Lovett may show, and what he sets out to accomplish.

Next Move Against Harriman.

Not till after this argument will the commission attempt to figure out its next move against Harriman. There is still to be decided the question of applying to a court for an order compelling Harriman to answer certain questions. This is likely to prove less important than might be supposed. The things that have been developed already are sufficient to justify prosecution for obstruction of the Union Pacific combination. It is thought, and to win a case along the lines of the Northern Securities proceeding. But there is still hanging over Mr. Harriman the menace of the San Pedro contract; the ominous fact that he never asked a question bearing on that remarkable transaction.

That is regarded as the most substantial ground for criminal proceeding against Harriman; and the Government was very careful to give him no immunity by letting him tell anything about it. It was forecast at that time that this meant a criminal action. The recent and mysterious activities of Mr. Kellogg have strengthened the belief that this is in mind.

The Administration, long before the exposure of Harrimanism had caused a panic, had an impression that Harriman would look well in a jail. The President has insisted that some of the big malefactors must go there. He has been insisting on it more strongly of late.

The Wall Street crash of values has only emphasized the feeling that Harriman is the man who will be selected as an example. And that is why the activities of Lawyer Kellogg are being watched with so much interest, and with a growing belief that they represent an unkind purpose toward the man who dominates Union Pacific.

Motive Back of U. P.'s Action.

None of the Government people know yet just why the Union Pacific people wanted to argue at length about the question of whether the Union Pacific and Southern Pacific are competing lines. Ordinarily, it would have been assumed that a legal discussion of that question would have been reserved for a court. There is not much to be said upon the point, apparently, that is new.

The same ground was covered in the Northern Securities case, and the finding was that those roads were parallel and competing. The Supreme Court sustained this in the exactly similar case of Union Pacific and Southern Pacific there is no apparent reason why this precedent should not be followed.

Therefore the commission and the lawyers of the Government are exceedingly curious to know what is the significance of the Government's action in this case. Kellogg and Severance, representing the Government, will abstain from submitting any argument at all. On the other hand they may have a
